

It's Who You Know

Philippians & Colossians

Pastor John

“It’s who you know,” so they say. That truism was, in a way, on the Apostle Paul’s mind when he wrote his prison epistles. One letter (Philippians) was written to a church that he knew so very well. His message to them was full of hope and joy. The other letter (Colossians) was very upbeat but it also had a very serious message. A common theme pulsates through both; “it’s who you know.” You guessed it: he’s talking about Jesus. His point fits us today as much as it did for his original addressees.
