

Stop for a few minutes and think about some of the interesting people you've encountered along the way. What did you like about them? What did you learn from them? How did the conversation start and how did it grow into something that was engaging? I think it's safe to say, we all have awkward moments when we aren't exactly sure what to say next or how to say it. And, when it comes to talking about Jesus, I mean, where do I start, what's the setting, and when is it safe to talk about something that really matters like...ah...God? The account in our text today should encourage us in talking about Jesus.

Let's start with what we know:

- The apostle Paul:

- Aquila and Priscilla:

- The new and improved Apollos:

- Apollos:

So, what can we safely take away from what we've seen from how these various characters lived their lives and spoke about Jesus?

Personal Application and Group Interaction

1. What does it take for you or anyone else to start talking about Jesus?
2. When was the last time when you were suddenly in a conversation about Jesus?
3. Describe a time where you felt like you were in over your head in a conversation about God? What did you do about it?
4. How intentional are you when it comes to talking about Jesus?
5. What have you witnessed and learned from others who intentionally engage people in conversations about Jesus?
6. What are you doing to be better prepared to have a conversation with someone about Jesus who is probably far from God?
