

Deciding who gets what can be a very emotional venture. It happens when a parent passes or when marriages break up. What do you deserve and what are you willing to surrender? The setting was like our contemporary press conferences. Jesus was asked an important question about His position on paying taxes. It was a gotcha question. His answer was a jaw dropping principle for all generations.

Another set up

What do you owe this side of heaven?

What does God expect and deserve?

Personal Application and Interaction

1. How do you feel when you send off your taxes?
2. Paul says, "Owe no one anything except to love one another, for he who loves another has fulfilled the law" (Rom.13:8). So, how are you doing with your indebtedness?
3. What has God been revealing to you lately as to what He wants from you?
4. How are you likely to respond when the Holy Spirit convicts you about something that you are holding back from surrender to God?
5. Describe your progress in giving God that which is Gods.
