

He said it would be like this. He told them it wouldn't be easy. But he said they would have what it would take to represent him even in the face of resistance, threats, and death. They were to follow him and represent him to a lost and oft- time hostile world. They were plan A. There was no plan B. Those who followed in their steps would face similar challenges. Many of us have and will continue to say what is needed to help others become fully devoted followers of Jesus. The Apostle Paul was a point man for Jesus. He spoke before governors and kings. He was surrounded by those who wanted him dead because of what he had to say about the risen Christ. As we pick up his story, let's look for principles that will help us in every opportunity to speak up for Jesus.

Personal Application and Interaction

1. What are you likely to be talking about this coming week?
2. What do you do to build relationships with people in hopes of speaking to them about the saving grace of Jesus?
3. What's the connection between your conscience and what you have to tell others about Jesus?
4. How do you show respect for people in your conversations about God?
5. Bottom line, what do you want your friends to know about and do with Jesus? Who are you to say anything to them about him?
